FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

ON FEES AND PRICING

What is the maximum numbers allowed for each training batch?

We suggest that batch sizes do not go over 20 participants.

How long is a half-day training and a full-day training?

Inclusive of breaks, half-days are between three and half and four hours. Full-day courses run up to eight hours.

Do you offer a discount if we purchase several courses from you.

If you book, confirm and pay for multiple courses in advance, we can offer a group rate.

Can I book training for a small team?

Yes absolutely, we regularly work with small teams.

Do you offer public workshop that I can join by myself?

We do not currently offer open workshops that can be individually joined.

Will you negotiate on price?

We believe that our fees are fair and reasonable, and similar to our clients in the luxury market, we do not offer large discounts or special offers.

Where does the training take place?

Training takes place onsite at client locations. We offer training throughout Europe, Middle East, United States and Asia

Can I get references from past clients?

The luxury industry is known for discretion and so we are normally required to sign non-disclosure agreements by the majority of our clients. It is not usually possible to extend the contact details of our clients to new clients.

Are there any additional costs I should know about?

For international training outside of the UK, trainer flights and accommodation will be charged at cost. For training within India where training takes places outside Mumbai, domestic economy travel is charged.
